When Dawn Forgets the Night

Selected poems · A free literary preview

Mohamed Kassid

A Sparrow Came to Kiss Me

A sparrow came to kiss me,
As I was about to fly,
Oh, what a mirth, He saves my life,
Hug me, wrap your soft wings around me,

Don't leave me,
Live under my skin,
Let me ride thee,
Fly away, for with you I shall always be free.

Starlight

Starlight shines bright,
In the middle of the night—
What a glory,
Dressed as a bride.

Riding a kite toward you,
Light upon light,
Stardust to Starlight,
This is my fate.

For the complete collection, please contact the author at lakroushi12@gmail.com.